The Immune Deficiency Foundation improves the diagnosis, treatment, and quality of life of people affected by primary immunodeficiency through fostering a community empowered by advocacy, education, and research.

A FEW WORDS: 2020 A YEAR FOR REFLECTING AND PROGRESSING

What began as a year to celebrate the Immune Deficiency Foundation's 40th anniversary, quickly pivoted to a year that would challenge IDF's ability to respond to unprecedented events.

As the global pandemic hit, our employees were sent to work safely from home, not knowing when they would return. Not knowing what one day would look like compared to the next is actually a very familiar feeling for members of the PI community. What did become known was that the uncertainty created significant opportunities for IDF to respond to the needs of the PI community. And COVID-19 quickly became the issue of greatest concern.

Our response to COVID-19 focused on fulfilling our constituent promise of providing transparency, trust, and compassion. IDF immediately developed a COVID-19 portal, which became a critical resource that was accessed more than 159,037 times over the course of the following six months, providing individuals living with PI critical information about COVID-19. IDF also transitioned all planned in-person events to a virtual environment and developed multiple programs addressing the need for plasma and at-home treatment, and reached out virtually to community members and healthcare professionals in real-time across the globe.

This response to the pandemic was an enormous team effort. I, and the entire board, are so appreciative to the IDF staff who worked tirelessly to provide support and services to the PI community without interruption during a disruptive time. We are also grateful for the warm and enthusiastic response from the PI community for participating, embracing, and including so many of their own family members, friends, and newly identified PI patients at IDF virtual events. Finally, we'd like to thank IDF corporate partners and personal donors who supported our efforts throughout the year.

As we continue to navigate through a global pandemic, we are first-hand witnesses of the effects and its toll on achieving our mission to improve the diagnosis, treatment, and quality of life of people affected by primary immunodeficiency.

We are confident that with your dedicated support, we will continue to grow and provide the advocacy, education, and research that the PI community needs. Thank you for your commitment and support to improving the lives of those living with PI. Every day, we prove that we are stronger together.

Best regards,
John Seymour, PhD, LMFT

COVID-19'S IMPACT AND A WIN FOR AT-HOME IG TREATMENTS

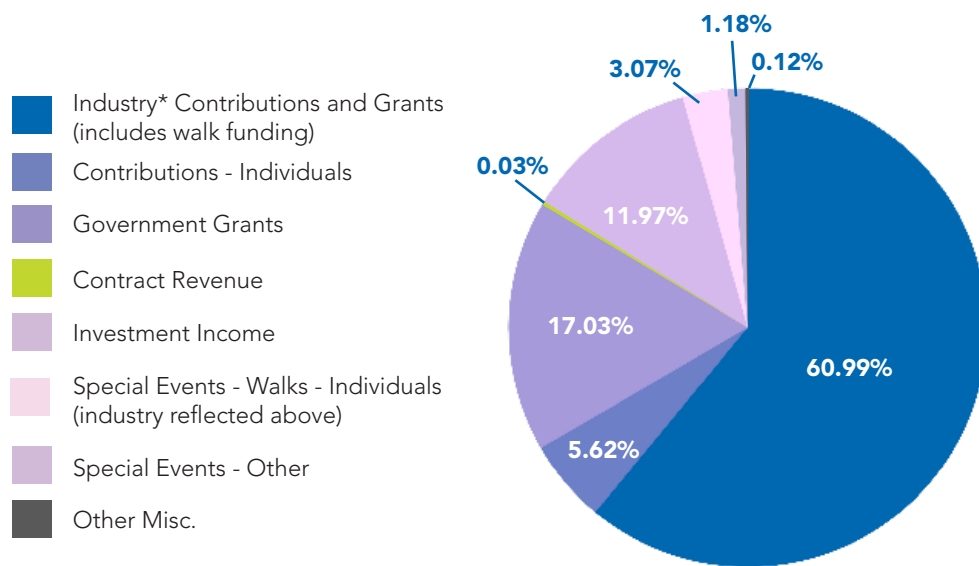

The COVID-19 pandemic has undoubtedly been challenging for everyone in 2020. However, there have been silver linings for the PI community in the policy realm. For example, IDF has long advocated for expanded access to home infusions and remote care to address various issues, including avoiding exposure to pathogens that could be present in facility settings. Our multi-year advocacy to initiate and extend the Medicare IVIG Demonstration has allowed PI patients on Medicare to receive full coverage of home infusions without any disruption of service and without having to take the risk of exposure to COVID-19 throughout the pandemic. The administration recognized the benefits of home infusion during the pandemic and implemented a temporary expansion of home infusion coverage for many other disease states. The policy arguments that IDF put to the forefront for years finally gained broad acceptance. We no longer have to explain to legislators why it is often safer for individuals to receive treatment at home.

In addition, greater access to telehealth services was implemented nationwide as physicians and patients became more comfortable with remote care, and both public and private insurance provided coverage. As we look ahead to 2021, IDF will continue its advocacy for expanded coverage for telehealth, not just during the pandemic but in the future.

PLASMA SAVES LIVES

Raising Awareness & Giving Plasma the Recognition It Deserves

Over the last couple of years, there has been more talk about plasma donation and its importance. There is not denying that plasma plays a crucial role to our health; it is one of the most critical components in blood, which is 55% plasma. Plasma itself has a wide range of uses, including creating plasma-derived therapies that benefit more than 70% of the primary immunodeficiency (PI) community. Plasma saves lives.

Plasma is collected through whole blood donation, meaning that blood is withdrawn from a donor and the plasma is filtered out before the remaining blood is returned back into the donor. This donated plasma is then used to create products that help with clotting blood, fighting diseases and boosting the immune system, and other critical functions. The process takes about an hour and can be done twice within a seven-day period.

However, only a small number of people who are eligible to donate plasma in the U.S. donate. And in many cases, a donor must donate plasma more than once for their donation to be a viable resource for plasma-derived therapies. Simply put, we need more donors. We need more awareness surrounding the lifesaving yellow liquid. We need heroes to step up and help those who rely on plasma-derived therapies to live.

The Immune Deficiency Foundation (IDF) launched the Plasma Hero initiative to recognize and thank those who donate plasma or raise awareness. In doing so, we hope to help more individuals learn about plasma, how it's used, and who it helps while encouraging people to donate plasma (and return more than once so that plasma can be utilized to save lives). It's time to step up and be a hero.

Donate plasma.

CELEBRATING 40 YEARS OF IDF!

IDF celebrated its 40th birthday on December 11, 2020. Not only did we raise over $170,000 from the generous birthday donations our community made to help improve the lives of those living with PI, but we also received some amazing birthday messages reminding us why we do what we do. Check out some of the birthday messages below!

Happy Birthday to IDF! This foundation has made such a wonderful difference to the people with PI. People like me! Thank you for all you do to keep us educated and informed of what is truly safeguarding my life & my precious two grandsons with our PI. - Brenda “Wishing IDF the happiest of Birthdays! What started at a kitchen table has grown to accomplish incredible things for the PI community. The successes of your efforts are honorable, life-saving & most certainly worth celebrating. Congratulations on an impactful 40 years!” - Lauren S.

Happy birthday! I appreciate you all! Your help, resources, kindness, & inspiration have added quality to my life. Your advocacy has saved my life. I appreciate you every day. Every infusion. Every medical appointment. Thank you! -Marilyn McVicker
