The Immune Deficiency Foundation (IDF) improves the diagnosis, treatment, and quality of life of people affected by primary immunodeficiency through fostering a community empowered by advocacy, education, and research.

Primary immunodeficiencies are a group of more than 400 rare, chronic disorders in which part of the body’s immune system is missing or functions improperly. While not contagious, PI is caused by hereditary or genetic defects and can affect anyone, regardless of age or gender. Many people with PI can live healthy, productive lives with early diagnosis and appropriate therapies.

Contact IDF for more information about programs and services for individuals and families living with primary immunodeficiency.
