It's September. So whether that means sweater weather, if you live somewhere other than where I do, or football or pumpkin spice lattes or just something else, it does seem fall as here. And with that, I'm happy to share a couple of updates for September. We only have three walks left in the season, Seattle on October eighteenth, Tampa on November first, and then we'll close the season in Texas in San Antonio on November fifteenth. If you don't live near any of those locations, please remember to join us on December sixth for our walk for PI coast to coast virtual event.

Help us spread awareness, build community, and raise funds for our mission by signing up to participate volunteer, or make a donation, and walk for p I dot org. Join us October 23rd for an Immune Deficiency Foundation webinar, decoding PI: The link between PI and cancer. To register, just visit primary immune dot org and click find events at the top and scroll down to the event for which you like to register.

See how the Immune Deficiency Foundation built bridges across the primary immunodeficiency community in twenty twenty four, connecting patients and families to vital resources, healthcare professionals to enhance knowledge and tools and advocates to policy breakthroughs that improve care access from serving over one point three million website visitors to advancing research that shapes tomorrow's treatments. Our annual report showcases how we're creating pathways to better understanding stronger communities and brighter futures for everyone touched by PI.

Discover the connections we've forged and the impact we've made together in our twenty twenty four annual report. You can download a copy from our website, just go to primary immune dot org, navigate to resources at the top, and you'll find it. Congratulations to Compromised: Life without immunity, our documentary, as it was selected as a finalist at the CineHealth Film Festival in Philadelphia and the Awareness Film Festival in Santa Monica. If you've not had a chance to watch it, now is the perfect time. Just visit our homepage at primary immune dot org.

Scroll down to where the documentary is featured and select watch the film for directions. Have a wonderful start to fall. And as always, if you need us, our website is a great place to start to register for events, to reach out to ask IDF, and to find other resources and support. Just go to primary immune dot org. Thank you.
