

Are you living with a primary immunodeficiency disease?

Contact the Immune Deficiency Foundation

Learn More

The Immune Deficiency Foundation (IDF) is the national patient organization dedicated to improving the diagnosis, treatment and quality of life of persons with primary immunodeficiency diseases through advocacy, education and research.

Primary immunodeficiency diseases are a group of more than 300 rare, chronic disorders in which part of the body's immune system is missing or functions improperly. While not contagious, these diseases are caused by hereditary or genetic defects and can affect anyone, regardless of age or gender. Many people with primary immunodeficiency can live healthy, productive lives with early diagnosis and appropriate therapies.

Contact IDF for more information about programs and services for individuals and families living with primary immunodeficiency.

800-296-4433

www.primaryimmune.org